Farmingville, NY - On July 20, Supervisor Ed Romaine joined Patchogue Mayor Paul Pontieri at the seventh annual Great South Bay Music Festival at Shorefront Park in Patchogue. The three day festival featured over 50 national and local acts offering a wide range of folk, rock and traditional music presented on four stages, an artisan market, craft vendors, food and entertainment for the entire family.

"It was a beautiful day to be in Patchogue," said Supervisor Romaine. "This festival is one of the region's most popular events for people from all over Long Island and beyond to enjoy the great music. It's a real family event that keeps growing bigger every year and I commend Mayor Pontieri for making it all possible."
